Southwest Research Institute and Lubrizol will be participating in the batch purchase.

- ii. The discussion with AAM, who made the current batch of hardware, will start to get pricing and timing.

IV. Additional Discussion / Business?

- a. The topic was brought up by one of the labs that the backlash seemed low on some of the current batch of T1XX test axles. There is no tolerance listed for backlash in the ASTM specification, so no action was taken since this test does not rate wear.

V. Summary of Action Items

- a. Anthony Lange
 - i. Send the Current T1XX part number to Troy Muransky for him to investigate the current state of production of the axle.
- b. Troy Muransky
 - i. Will ask internally about the current T1XX axle used for the L33-1 test to see its current production schedule to see how long it will remain in production to see if switching to a new axle would be more beneficial to the committee at this time.

VI. Adjourn:

Motion: Arjun Goyal

Thank you,
Anthony Lange
